For 75,000 residents from Columbus area

County designated as nuclear sanctuary

By PHIL LEWIS

Record-Herald City Editor A mushroom cloud hovers over Columbus. Thousands of panic-striken motorists are fighting their way down clogged highways looking for a sanctuary.

A scenario from a grade B science fiction movie or a photo from a civil defense manual from the 1950s?

It could be both. But, just because nobody is building fallout shelters in their backyards anymore, doesn't mean a nuclear attack is not possible.

For it is entirely possible that if some "hostile aggressor" does press the nuclear button, Columbus would be a target. And, if that happens, the sanctuary the frantic residents of Franklin County will be looking for may well be in Fayette County.

Hopefully, Franklin County residents will never need to search for a sanctuary, but the Ohio Disaster Services Agency would rather be safe than sorry

That is why Fayette County is included in plans for a crisis relocation program presently on the disaster service drawing board.

Once the plans are finalized (in about two years) Washington C.H. and the surrounding area would become the temporary home of 75,000 Columbus residents in the event of a nuclear attack.

The state disaster services agency has determined that two sites in Ohio are primary risk areas, meaning prime nuclear targets.

Cities such as New York and Washington D.C. are also in this category. So it may come as a surprise that the two Ohio sites are Columbus and Dayton.

18 Pages

Both Ohio cities lack the population concentrations of Cleveland and the heavy industry of the Youngstown area. However, they do have Air Force bases and Columbus has a large computer center and many government offices.

Under the government's thinking this lends Columbus to eventual attack during a nuclear crisis. And, since the government no longer pushes the building of fallout shelters, a new plan needs to be formulated.

"The old 1950s plan has every one evacuated from big cities or under shelter in 30 minutes," J.R. Williams of the state disaster services office said. "Now we have enough sophisticated equipment to determine well in advance when a nuclear attack is apparent.'

Williams briefly outlined the new plan by saying that when a nuclear attack becomes apparent all non-critical workers and families will be moved out of high-risk areas. State officials will be meeting with Fayette County officials in the near future to discuss the drafting of such a relocation plan. Williams said the local disaster services agency, presently headed by Raldon Smith, will be developing a plan to provide law enforcement, housing, mass feeding, and emergency medical care for the 75,000 Columbus

Even if there is no nuclear attack, a threatened attack would send Columbus residents scurrying.

"When an attack becomes apparent," Williams said, "non-critical workers will be evacuated. A worker who works at an essential job such as at a utility company or a gas refinery in Franklin County will stay or commute to his job. If an attack occurs while he is on the job, there will be enough shelter areas in Columbus to take care of him and fellow workers.'

Williams also stated that if Columbus is attacked, Fayette County would be a sanctuary from two to six weeks or "until people can start filtering back in (to Columbus).

Fayette County would not be the only sanctuary for

Under the statewide plan, the counties surrounding Columbus-Madison, Pickaway, Fairfield, Ross, Union, Delaware, Knox and Licking-would also serve as "host

Each of the counties would be expected to accept evacuees on a three-to-one basis, meaning three evacuees to every permanent resident in the host counties. That is why Fayette County with a population of approximately 25,000 can expect to receive 75,000 evacuees

The entire state will be split into "risk counties" and "host counties." Such groupings are called conglomerates by the disaster services agency. There will be 13 risk-host conglomerates in the state.

Besides the high risk areas of Dayton and Columbus, secondary high risk areas are Cleveland Toledo, Youngstown, Ironton, Cincinnati, and Steubenville. Lima and Mansfield are considered lesser risk areas for various Williams said the entire statewide plan ties in with a national plan now being formulated. This will cause extensive interstate cooperation. For instance, four northern Ohio counties will serve as sanctuaries for the highly industrialized Detroit, Mich., area.

For host counties to accommodate the fleeing city residents some extensive planning must be done

Smith, who presently serves as the part-time Fayette County Disaster Services Agency director, told the county commissioners this week that a full-time director would be needed to do an adequate planning job.

Smith said he would be making a decision at the end of the year whether to remain as director of the local disaster services agency or as the tax administrator for the city of Washington C.H. He told the commissioners that he would have to give up one of the jobs

The commissioners, Washington C.H. city manager, and the county disaster services board of directors will meet with state officials Nov. 10 to further discuss the massive planning job

Major housing bill inked by President

Carter today signed a bill providing $14.7 billion for housing the needy and revitalizing the cities, calling it "a giant step forward" in improving living conditions for low-income, elderly and handicapped families

The measure includes $1.2 billion to help the families pay their rent.

Recalling his visit last week to the South Bronx slums in New York, Carter said he saw living conditions that are "a disgrace to our great country enough to shake our confidence in the structure that we've evolved.

While there are no instant solutions to such housing problems, the President said, "this bill takes a giant step forward.

Sitting at a small brown table in the White House Rose Garden, Carter put his signature on the measure with two green pens, then shook hands with members of Congress attending the ceremony.

"In general, this is a very excellent piece of legislation," Carter told them. But he said one part of it, removing restraints on building homes in flood plains, caused him concern.

The President said he would determine whether to reinstate the restraints with corrective legislation next year or try to deal with the matter administratively.

The signing ceremony followed Carter's weekly breakfast with development bill, product of a twomonth conference between the House and Senate, extends the block grant program for revitalizing cities for three years and funds it with $10.9 billion, a $2.4 billion increase.

After the ceremony, Carter arranged to meet for the third time in two days with Lt. Gen. Olusegun Obasanjo, the Nigerian chief of state. The President conferred with him Tuesday and honored him at a White House dinner Tuesday night.

The administration says the rent subsidies for the needy plus the financial aid to hard-pressed cities will help an additional 345,000 families find housing at rents they can afford.

At the same time, the White House says, the bill will provide a half million jobs in construction and related industries where unemployment rates are the highest.

Carter aides also expect the measure to spur private investment in distressed urban areas, again where the need is the greatest

In a new twist, the bill provides two formulas for allocating the money, enabling older, more distressed cities to get significantly greater assistance. Older cities in the Northeast will benefit from the new, alternative allocation formula, but other regions are not expected to be harmed by it. The administration says smaller communities will be able to cope with their problems more systematically under the terms of the act. The bill also increases mortgage insurance and lowers down-payment requirements under the Federal Housing Administration.

In another presidential action, Carter said Tuesday he plans to merge the U.S. Information Agency and the bureau that handles cultural exchanges into one Agency for International Communication. He pledged it would not act covertly or spread propaganda.

The President's proposals were in a message to Congress outlining the second of his plans for government reorganization. At the same time, Carter promised to keep the USIA's Voice of America independent and objective.

"What we're withholding is very important to us. It's all we've got going for us," Sgt. William Chaplin of the Anne Arundel County homicide squad said of the autopsy reports.

Authorities have concentrated the search for the killer - or killers - in the Southgate neighborhood where Deborah Anne Hogan, 10; her sister Theresa, 8, and schoolmate Anne Marie Brzeszkiewicz, 8, lived and played.

The girls' parka-clad bodies were found Monday lying face down in a stream running through the muddy woods almost within sight of their suburban Baltimore homes. They disappeared Sunday evening while

Dr. Anne Dixon, assistant medical examiner, speculated that there may have been more than one assailant since the girls were "three young, fairly active kids."

Police searched the wooded area Tuesday with metal detectors and emptied trash bins looking for clues. A hunting knife is suspected as the murder weapon. A leather sheath was found but authorities were unsure whether it was connected to the crimes. As the ground search in the neighborhood of $55,000 to $65,000 houses ended, the flags, at Southgate Elementary School where the girls were students were lowered to half was also fined $25 and court costs.

One of the three contested a city ordinance connected with the filing of tax returns and was continued to allow defense and presecuting attorneys to file appropriate legal briefs.

Two persons out of the second group of 15 appeared in court on Oct. 6. One case was discontinued because the man had made arrangements to file a return and pay his tax by Oct. 20. In the other case, the court costs were waived on the condition the defendant file his return the next day.

One other defendant appeared Tuesday, after making arrangements with the tax administrator to file a 1975 tax return. The case was dismissed and costs were waived.

Raldon Smith said he has not been able to estimate how much in back taxes the city has collected from these cases, but added that by the time those originally charged had all been dealt with, he would have a rough figure. The last group of taxpayers charged with failing to file a 1975 return are scheduled to appear in court Nov. 1.

Not even plain careful

Emil Schaffner is a California farmer who doesn't like the 1902 federal law restricting federal reclamation project water to farms of 160 acres or less. To protect a state Supreme Court ruling which has just upheld the law, he disced a message of dissent into one of his Imperial Valley fields. No one can take exception to this imaginative exercise of free speech.

Robert H. Meyer is another Imperial Valley landowner who doesn't like the 160-acre water rights limit. He mad his views known to government officials and discussed his problems with them. But his was Meyer is an assistant secretary of agriculture whose Imperial Valley farming interests were placed in a blind trust when he was sworn in. Blind trust or no, he retains a vested interest in that land and whatever affects it. This requires that he avoid even the appearance of attempting to influence the government or seek special treatment for himself or other landowners.

He did not. President Carter, learning of this, made some tart comments. "no one, including myself," he said, "should use office for private gain." Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland got a note from the President saying: "I want this practice stopped whether or not there was illegality."

Bergland in turn has ordered his aides to be alert to possible conflicts of interest, or even the appearance of conflicts. He says he told them to "just be super, super, super careful who they talk to and on what subjects." That sounds explicit enough. The fact remains that Meyer not only wasn't "super, super, super careful;" he was, at best, downright

Republic of Vietnam, who are now at the mercy of Hanoi's butchers. A smug, grinning lot these, as they recently were feted at the United Nations, lauded by Ambassador Young, and greeted by a crew of American "Hanoihawks" as the redeemers of Vietnam from "world imperialism and American colonialism. Hanoi's charmers left the celebration for Turtle Bay to join the U.N. chorus calling for the destruction of Israel. This is hardly coincidental: Israel is currently getting the same treatment formerly utilized to undermine the legitimacy of the Saigon government. is history, not sentiment, that has triggered my vigorous spport for the Israeli refusal to be good chaps, recognize the Palestine Liberation Organization, and accept the Charter-Brezhnev invitation to Munich - sorry,

Six or eight hundred columns ago explained I would support Israel if its population were Vietnamese. Without a moment deprecating the Holocaust or the existential torment of both European survivors and oppressed Jews in Arab lands, my commitment to the Jewish state was founded on a conception of American international ideals. In the Vietnamese instance, in 1964 I sombery became convinced American success was essential to maintain the credibility of our dedication to containing totalitarian aggression by conventional

It was not a cheerful decision, buoyed by Green Beret macho. I knew it would be a long, twilight struggle, but unfortunately history is not playdough The other side can and did choose the battlefield. Hanoi covered our bet, put in its stack, and launched a brilliant strategy to win the war in the United States. Their agit-prop campaign, designed to undermine American

The Saigon government - which Moscow had twice in the 1950s nominated for membership in the United Nations! I was "illegitimate." We were intervening in a "civil war," supporting a "corrupt dictatorship." "End the bombing!," "Recognize the National Liberation Front!,"
"Negotiate!" The din was almost National unnerving. And among the intellectuals there was notable impact: many denied any relationship between events in Asia and the Middle East.

The Israelis knew better. In 1966 I spent a long evening with Moshe Dayan in Vietnam. We agreed that any U.S. retreat from Saigon would lead through Tel Aviv. The totalitarian game plan was in both cases identical: a phony "liberation front" sponsored by a Soviet client or clients and, in the crunch, backed by conventional invasion and massive Soviet military equipment.

Indeed, a year earlier I observed in the New York Times (9-23-65) that the assault on South Vietnam was part "of a worldwide pattern of aggression employing 'national liberation movements' and guerrilla warfare. Like the Vietcong, a 'Palestine Liberation Front' (the P.L.O. was then still in embryo) could largely be composed of authentic local types (but) the 'civil war' they might initiate would be fundamentally at the service of a foreign coalition dedicated to the destruction of freedom. . . I hope," my commentary concluded, "our response to such a threat to Israel would echo our commitment to defend the integrity of South Vietnam.'

In 1977, with Saigon "Ho Chi Minh City," this has a macabre ring, but I stand pat on the basic proposition. Thus consider the Carter-Brezhnev agreement to ignore all existing U.N. resolutions calling for direct Israel-Arab negotiations a shameful violation of our 1975 promise to clear any modifications fo Resolution 242 with Jerusalem. I react with volcanic fury at the Carter effort to force the Israelis to legitimate the P.L.O., or evacuate any territory before a peace set-

I have literally been here before - in Paris, Jan., 1973 - and learned the early symptoms of a sell-out: The Israeli government must reject its death warrant. Our government seemingly learned nothing from the 1973 "peace accord" with Hanoi but it is in the American interest that Israel not become our next sacrificial offering to 'improved Soviet-American lations." Maybe the Israelis will save us from ourselves.

Husband upsets wife

DEAR ABBY: I am 40, and have been married for 20 years. For some unknown reason my husband has lost all interst in sex. I told him in a very nice way that I missed his loving, and he just laughted and said, "Oh come on, we're both too old for that kind of stuff!" (He's 42.) We get along fine, but it's like living with my brother.

He always comes right home after work and never goes anywhere without me, so I'm sure there's no other woman.

I can't understand his indifference. I keep myself neat and clean and I never nag him.

The light side

CARNESVILLE, Ga. (AP) - Two prisoners left a letter before escaping from the Franklin County jail, telling the sheriff they were only human and "just needed a taste of freedom."

Sheriff Clifford Royston on Monday made public a letter by David Worley, 34, which was also signed by Ricky Lamar Hughes, 29. Serving 20 years for armed robbery, they had recently lost an appeal for a new trial and escaped last week by sawing through bars.

"You have been a most fair man," they said. "We really regret these circumstances and situation and it may be a foolish move on our part but we need to relieve some mental and physical pressures.

We had hoped ... we could return to our homes and families. We don't intend to partake in any crime and we will be back in this county to face another charge on our own, we hope.

'We're human, we just needed a taste of freedom. For Royston, who has been ill recently, they added: "We wish you the best, take care and stay out of the hospital." FARMINGDALE, N.J. (AP) - A

State solons return for committee meets

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) Lawmakers return today for a series of committee meetings to shape legislation on energy, capital construction and, possibly, school financing for abbreviated floor sessions next

The school issue will be handled by a hastily-assembled ad hoc committee of House and Senate members concerned threatened school closings. Legislators are particularly concerned over the danger of an imminent shutdown in Cleveland, the state's largest district. A one-time-only deficit spending plan for Cleveland is one option that the panelists will study.

One item is missing from the agenda, however, is the highly-controversial collective bargaining bill for public employes, one step away from final passage, but held in the limbo of a House-Senate Conference Committee.

The sponsor, Sen. Harry Meshel, D-33 Youngstown, said Tuesday the nextmeeting of the conference committee. set for Monday, might be postponed to allow more time for study of the $517 million capital improvements budget.

Freeze warnings in U.S. continue

By The Associated Press Frost or freeze warnings continued from southeast Nebraska and southwest Iowa through Kansas and Missouri except for the southwest portion into Oklahoma and west Texas. Storm warnings were posted over western Lake Superior with gale warnings through much of the Great Lakes as winter moves eastward.

Little apparent progress has been made in efforts to reach a compromise between House and Senate versions of the bargaining bill, but neither have sharp divisions been apparent, at least among Democratic conferees.

Meshel appears more interested in getting the capital plan ready for a Senate floor vote on Oct. 19 or Oct. 20. The House will also return for a floor meeting on the latter date.

Representatives of Ohio colleges and universities will get a last gasp hearing today before Meshel's Finance subcommittee.

In addition to their efforts to fatten the higher education pork barrel, a $750,000 appropriation already in the bill for the University of Cincinnati, is expected to generate some controversy.

The money is supposed to go toward a feasibility study of building an indoor sports complex on the UC campus, a concept favored by the university's administration.

But representatives of the American Association of University professors, who think teachers' salary increases should be a higher priority, plan to testify against the sports-study.

In another committee room, the Senate Energy and Public Utilities panel will look at complex legislation, approved by the House, to create a powerful, cabinet level Department of Revenues from both potential taxes would be used to further develop Ohio energy sources and, in the case of the coal-use levy, to help fund the new agency.

In the House, the Energy and Environment Committee hearings on a Senate-passed bill designed to improve cooperation between government units in disposal of garbage, and refuse recycling or resource recovery. The legislation is expected to be ready for final action a week from Thursday.

A House Ways and Means subcommittee plans to vote on a bill favored by the Rhodes Adminstration that would grant industrial tax breaks on new investments in machinery and equipment.

A controversial bill to permit school districts to pay for school operations through a local income tax, rather than property taxes, will also get a hearing.

Ladies Day observed

The Fayette Fish and Game Association Auxiliary held a Gun Handling for Ladies Day recently at the lodge on Stafford Rd. Those who attended were taught how to handle various types of guns. They then had the opportunity to shoot a pistol, shotgun and muzzle loading rifle. Skip Mitchell, local game protector, was the instructor, and was assisted by Don Smith, president of the Association.

The Auxiliary will have a table at the Charity Bazaar at Murphy Mart Oct.

On Sunday, Oct. 16, at 11 a. m. lunch will be served at the lodge on Stafford Rd. for the consignment auction sponsored by the Ohioans for Wildlife Conservation.

There will be no regular meeting held in October, due to the county-wide meeting at the Armory today(Wednesday), sponsored by the Ohioans for Wildlife Conservaton.

The next regular meeting is scheduled for Nov. 9 at the lodge at 7:30

Class observes anniversary

Miss Mary Sauer was hostess at a lovely party Tuesday evening when 15 members of the Marguerite Class of First Presbyterian Church paid tribute to Mrs. Orville Jenkins, teacher for the past 48 years, from the time the class was organized. A poem by Edgar Guest was read by Mrs. Florence Cook, assistant teacher, who also told of her dedication and love for the class in all these years. Mrs. Leonard Dellinger conducted the meeting and read the poem, 'Treasure.' Mrs. Cook also was in charge of devotions and read from the Book of II Corinthians. Reports were presented by Mrs. Fred Rost, Mrs. Walter Taylor, officers, and Mrs. William Rogers announced the pecans would be shipped the last of October. The birthday money was added to the treasury.

Members of the nominating committee appointed by Mrs. Dellinger were Mrs. Frank Dellinger, Mrs. Taylor and Mrs. Cook.

Discussion pertaining to the church flowers and decorating for Christmas and Easter took place.

Members were also reminded of the Fayette County Historical Society meeting to be held Tuesday, Oct. 18, at the Senior Citizens Center, Delaware

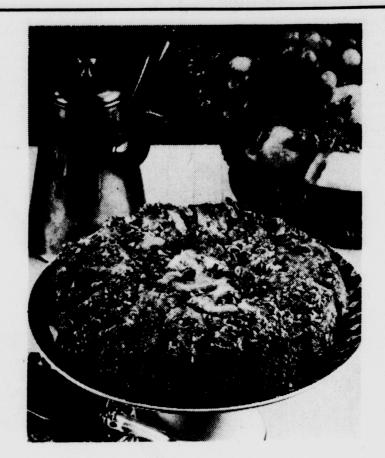

The dining room table was centered with a sheet cake frosted with blue and white flowers, flanked with candles on either side. Members lighted the candles. Blue flowers in silver bowls carried out the blue and silver class colors. Ice cream and cake, nuts and mints were served. Mrs. William Rogers assisted Miss Sauer in the hospitalities.

Mrs. Homer Bireley, associate member, was a guest for the evening.

Your pancakes will not stick and there will be no smoke or odor if you make a little salt bag and rub your pan with it instead of using grease.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT

AP Television Writer LOS ANGELES (AP) — Back in 1938, young Mexican-born artist, Bill Melendez, knocked on the door of the Walt Disney studios in Burbank, inquiring about a job.

He got one, as assistant animator of the classic "Fantasia."

Now, he's celebrating his 14th year as animator-producer of another kind of classic — Charles M. Schulz' "Peanuts" specials, in which he doubles as the voice of the noted doghouse ace, "Snoopy."

His latest effort, "It's Your First Kiss, Charlie Brown," airs on CBS Oct. 24. It's the 17th half-hour "Peanuts" special he's made. Melendez, 60, a tall, friendly man with graying crew-cut hair and a waxed mustache, was beginning work on another special, "Bon Voyage, Charlie Brown," when he paused for a quick chat last week.

Among other things, he was asked if drawing thousands of cartoons, shifting a figure's movements ever so slightly thousands of times to make a show, doesn't get a mite repetitive at times. "Not really," shrugged the man who estimates he did 15 to 20 sketches a day, six days a week, for more than a year on "Fantasia."

"Animation is a series of drawings illustrating an action. So the characters are always moving, there's always a different position for the head, arms, body, whatever. So the drawings aren't

Be that as it may, how long does it usually take to put together a "Peanuts" special that runs about 25 minutes without commercials?

"Oh, about six months from the time I start with Sparky (Schulz) on the story board," he replied off-handedly. "We work very closely at this time in San Francisco (Schulz' home base).

"We talk and I take notes. Then I come back here and draw some more. It usually takes about two months to do the story itself, then four months to animate it."

Bill, who works with a seven-member team of animators at the two-bungalow studio he opened here in 1964, was sympathetic to the lot of those who turn out Saturday morning cartoon shows for TV every week.

He conceded such shows are criticized for their lack of detail, their almost stick-like sketches, "but there's no other way you can do it. They have a problem of budget and time ... it's impossible.

The budget is so low they can't use many drawings. The more drawings you use, the more expensive the show

Melendez knows whereof he speaks, having worked not only at Disney, but also at Warner Bros., at UPA, which "Gerald made the legendary "Gerald McBoingBoing" cartoons, and on more than 1,000 TV commercials.

Despite nearly 40 years in the business, he still speaks of his labors as fun, particularly his first big-time work at the Disney studios.

1:55 - (9) News. The light side

BINGHAMTON, N.Y. (AP) — A young boy called the Broome County Sheriff's Department and urgently asked that an ambulance be sent to his home in nearby Sanitaria Springs.

The boy said his mother was in pain from appendicitis. Deputies dispatched an ambulance only to get another call - this time from the boy's father who said to hurry because his wife was having a baby.

When the volunteer ambulance crew arrived, Mrs. Allen Roody had given birth to a five-pound boy, her fourth child, all of them boys.

Mrs. Roody said she had not been aware of being pregnant. Mother and child were in good condition later at a hospital.

packing from a park in front of the White House to a new home.

The squirrels, lacking a steady diet of peanuts from the patrons of Lafayette Park, have been dining on the square's geraniums and beech trees. A government spokesman estimates damage at $5,000 since early spring.

peanuts is sending 100 squirrels

So federal agents have been catching the squirrels in the dead of night and ushering them off to suburban woodlands where, the government says, the menu is better.

George Berklacy of the National Park Service blamed the problem on an unusually high number of squirrels coupled with a peanut shortfall caused by lower park attendance during a frigid winter and torrid summer. Even 200 pounds of peanuts donated by the park service didn't help; the

WASHINGTON (AP) - A shortage of squirrels went through the goobers and into geraniums. "One day," said William Ruback, the park's manager said, "I came to inspect a bed of geraniums and it looked like someone had taken a lawnmower and chopped them down.'

The service wants no comparison with the 1955 deportation of squirrels from former President Eisenhower's putting green. That move caused a small furor: the late Sen. Richard Neuberger, D-Ore., denounced the project on the Senate floor; a Save the White House Squirrels Fund was started; and two fence manufacturers offered to enclose the putting green for

The schemes were called off after Press Secretary James Hagerty said the three offending squirrels had already been removed to the city's Rock Creek Park.

Carter orders embargo study

WASHINGTON - President Carter has ordered the National Security Council to assess the effects another oil embargo would have on the United States. The secret study will analyze how vulnerable the United States has become and how the government might respond if our overseas oil supplies should be cut off.

Energy Secretary James Schlesinger has concluded darkly that the continued flow of Middle East oil into this country is less certain than at any time since the 1973 Arab oil embargo, confidential sources report.

The United States has become more dependent, meanwhile on foreign oil fields. This country now imports 8.7 million barrels of oil a day. This is two million barrels more than the daily intake only two years ago.

Yet oil is the lifeblood that keeps the nation throbbing. Without overseas oil, the industry wheels would slow down and the highways would start to empty. Even the nation's military machine would have to curtail its operations.

So last June, President Carter ordered a secret review of the nation's vulnerability. The exhaustive, fourmonth study is now nearing completion.

The findings probably will be too sensitive to release to the public. The security analysts are studying several possible scenarios. They are particularly concerned, for example, that a sudden disruption of the international oil flow could cause a confrontation in Europe between the Soviet bloc and NATO nations over oil. One intelligence official stressed: "Oil is terribly important in national security affairs."

The most likely result, according to sources familiar with the National Security Council review, will be tighter control of oil imports and a dramatic acceleration of the strategic oil program.

Overseas oil already is going into the strategic reserves in case of a future emergency. Schlesinger "would like to put as much oil in the ground as possible," one administration source explained.

Critics contend, however, that Schlesinger puts too much emphasis on conserving oil and not enough emphasis on replacing it. Since the world consumes oil faster than nature creates it, they argue, the world inevitably must run short of oil. They believe Schlesinger's first priority, therefore, should be to find a substitute for oil.

Administration officials have indicated to us, meanwhile, that the president will start using his executive authority if Congress doesn't help him reduce oil imports. He may have to resort to using the Trade Expansion Act, they said, to curtail imports with fees and tariffs

Footnote: Foreign oil purchases are also giving Treasury officials a four-"There's no aspirin headache. question," an official told us, "that the balance of payments is causing concern at the highest levels.'

Panama Pressures: The Carter administration is fully aware of human rights violations in Panama, but has remained silent so far to avoid upsetting the Panama Canal treaty negotiations

One highly placed State Dept. official conceded privately to our reporter Julia Keller that Panama "has areas in need of improvement," including abuses of human rights.

Another official added that State cannot criticize Panama for such violations "until the Panama Canal treaty in in the bag.

At the same time, presidential assistant Peter Bourne was recently reminded by the Panamanian Committee for Human Rights that, as we reported in 1973, the family of Panama strongman Gen. Omar Torrijos was involved in narcotics smuggling and that the State Dept. tried to cover it up.

Bourne told the spokesman the White House didn't want to "ruffle feathers" during the sensitive negotiations.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Leopoldo Aragon, widow of the Panamanian writer who recently immolated himself to protest the canal treaty, plans to tell the House about torture, kidnapping and forced exile under Torrijos.

For the record, however, the ad-

Tv Tussle: The Justice Dept. has been accused of gypping American television makers out of hundreds of millions of dollars in favor of 18

In a scorching confidential letter to Assistant Attorney General John Shenefield, the nation's antitrust chief, Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., blasted the department for "incredible deference to suspected antitrust

Ohio Perspective

School closings anger officials

By ROBERT E. MILLER Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - Local school closings, coming only a few months after the state's biggest education appropriation in history, are producing moods in the legislature ranging from frustration to anger.

Very soon, leaders may set up a Select Legislative Committee to find out where the money is going, and to find out whether the failure of local levies is an adequate explanation.

Are the funds going for frills, are local boards adept enough to know their own financial status, and is the state doing a good enough oversight job on local officials?

One of the biggest objections among state lawmakers has been that in some instances, local boards didn't know they are in financial straits until just days before they have to shut down.

The City of Cleveland's school district didn't bring its current problem to Columbus until late September. One official, State Auditor Thomas E.

Ferguson, was quoted as saying the district should have known six months earlier it would run out of funds before year's end.

Ferguson, after a recent requested audit, said the Cleveland district would have to close Oct. 17 to end the calendar year Dec. 31 without a deficit.

The legislature returns for a fall session Oct. 19, and an informal House-Senate committee is at work on legislation that could enable Cleveland to borrow some funds. Meanwhile, it is up to the education department to decide whether Cleveland schools will be ordered closed

"More state appropriations are out. We don't have any more funds," said House Speaker Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston, who noted the 1977-1979 appropriation for primary and secondary education totaled more than $1 billion. That was $425 million more state money than 1975-1977, and about $150 million more than requested of the legislature by Gov. James A. Rhodes.

"And enrollments are supposed to be declining," Riffe added.

True enough, many districts - most notably Toledo — have been put on the rocks by voter refusal to approve local levies. Local districts are supposed to provide roughly 60 per cent of the cost of running their schools.

But the legislature thinks there may other factors, including mismanagement, and a possibility that some "frills" — including such extra curricular activities as sports, arts and music — are getting a disproportionate share.

Sen. Marigene Valiquette, D-11 Toledo, introduced a measure under which the state education department could prohibit frills that take funds away from basic education programs. "I'm not convinced that these things are frills, but enough funds simply are not available. I think we might have to start choosing priorities," she told the Senate Education Committee at recent hearing on her measure.

Challenges facing Ohio's private colleges outlined at Rotary meet education. This, according to Dr. Kerr,

Five of the challenges facing Ohio's small, private colleges today were outlined at the regular weekly luncheon meeting of the Washington C.H. Rotary Club Tuesday in the Country Club.

Dr. Thomas Kerr, president of Otterbein College in Westerville, said the five challenges are changing enrollments and a birth rate drop; inflationary trends; vocationalism; government expansion, and the changing values of today's society.

Dr. Kerr commented on each of the challenges

Changing enrollment The birth rate decline impact has hit Ohio's colleges and universities, and by 1995 there will be 28 per cent less 18 year olds in the state, he said.

Ohio is also being affected by an outmigration of its population, and is sending more students out of the state for higher education than it is at-

He also said the state has experienced a shift in enrollment in statesupported schools. Only 23 per cent of today's college students are enrolling in private schools.

Inflationary trends

Dr. Kerr pointed out the rising costs being experienced by Ohio's private colleges, saying that it costs less to attend state-supported schools because taxpayers are subsidizing the costs.

Sixty per cent of our annual budget is for labor costs and we can't always pass those costs onto our customers, he said

Vocationalism

In relation to the fact that career training programs are attracting the attention of today's students, Dr. Kerr said he believes a general learning program (liberal arts) is better in the long run, especially for undergraduate students

Gas leak reported

Washington C.H. firefighters investigated a reported natural gas leak at a S. Fayette Street residence Tuesday

According to a fire department report, the suspected leak was reported by Mildred Whittington of 6401/2 S. Fayette St. about 11:45 Tuesday morning

Firefighters searched the house, but stated they could not find a leak.

Government expansion He said there are 250 governmental agencies which affect

He said the last U.S. census report disclosed that the majority of the nation's residents live in suburban areas, indicating "that we are living in a highly mobile society

Accompanying this change are other factors which have had an impact on colleges including the fragmentation of family life, a climbing divorce rate and less marriages

Consumer protection dispute revived

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - A three- State Institute. year-old political dispute over which arm of state government should have responsibility for consumer protection has flared up again.

The state Controlling Board released $181,939 Tuesday to help Atty. Gen. William J. Brown operate an expanded consumer protection division.

The request, approved 4-3 along partisan lines, rekindled the "semipolitical question of who does what in consumer protection," as Rep. Waldo Bennet Rose, R-64 Lima, put it.

After failing during the 1975 "six day Majority Democrats succeeded last July in transferring consumer from the protection Administration commerce department to the attorney general's consumer frauds and crimes section. But no money was appropriated for the expanded operation in Democrat Brown's

Rose and two other Republicans on the seven-member board argued that the money should have been provided when the politically motivated switch was made. They managed to win an amendment cutting a nearly $400 million, two-year request to the lower

Earlier in a bipartisn move, the board approved spending by the Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation of an additional $5 million in federal Medicaid money. That cleared the way for hiring 1,235 new employes at state mental retardation facilities

Consequently, Ohio institutions for the mentally retarded should be able to meet minimum national standards for staff levels by mid-1978, a spokesman for department said.

The federal money for the fiscal year ending next July 1 became available as the result of legislation enacted last month changing the way the state bills Medicaid providers at institutions. The new formula bases state payment on current, actual cost, rather than estimates assumed from past ex-

Dr. Timothy Moritz, director of the Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation, said last week that with the new money the state could reach "minimum standards" of the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals by next June.

The bulk of the new spending authority, $3 million, will be used to place new employes at all levels at four facilities for the mentally retarded; Orient State Institute; Gallipolis State Institute; Mount Vernon and Columbus

An additional $2 million will be used to maintain current staff at extended care facilities for the mentally ill at the following locations: Athens, Tiffin, Longview (Cincinnati), Massillon; Cambridge, Toledo and the Central Ohio Psychiatric facility.

Orient, the state's largest hospital for mentally retarded patients, was more than 400 employes below minimum standards when Moritz and other officials toured it last week.

In other action, the board:

-Approved a $100,000 program to continue an educational television show for elderly Ohioans called "Prime Times." The federal government will pay 90 per cent of the bill.

Released $75,000 for repair work on a crumbling terrace between the Statehouse and the Statehouse Annex.

-Approved diversion of $187,829 originally targeted for the Tri-County Board of Mental Health and Mental Retardation to the Youngstown Hospital Association, Psychiatric Inpatient Facility.

The Bearcat 210 is a sophicticated scanning instrument with the ease of operation and frequency versability you've dreamed of imagine, selecting from any of the public service bands and from all local frequencies by simply pushing a few buttons. No longer are you limited by crystals to a given band and set of frequencies. It's all made possible by Bearcat space-age solid state circuitry. You can forget crystals forever.

possible by Bearcat space-age solid state circuitry. You can forget crystals forever.

Pick the 10 frequencies you want to scan and punch them in on the keyboard. It's incredibly easy. The large decimal display reads out, each frequency you've selected. When you want to change frequencies, just enter the new ones.

Automatic search lets you scan any given range of frequencies of your choice within a band. Push-button lockout permits you to selectively skip frequencies not of current interest, The decimal display with its exclusive "rolling zeros" tells you which channels you're monitoring. When the Bearcat 210 locks in on an active frequency the decimal display shows the channel and frequency being monitored.

Only Bearcat's wast experience in scanner technology combined with our expertise in the design and application of solid state circuitry could have advanced scanning to this state of the art. But you should have expected this from Expercat. We invented scanning, and it's our only business.

A minor hit and run accident was reported to sheriff's deputies early Wednesday.

A witness reportedly told investigating deputies a brown Oldsmobile backed from a parking space at the Sulky Restaurant, 1619 U.S. 22-NE, and struck a parked car. The Oldsmobile, which caused moderate damage to a car belonging to Tom Cook, 25, of Greenfield, then left the scene. The accident occurred around 2

Woman files suit for lottery cash

CLEVELAND (AP) Howard has called a penalty on the Ohio Lottery's Touchdown game, claiming the lottery owes her $10,000. But lottery officials maintain her Touchdown ticket was a misprint.

The University Heights woman filed suit in Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court Tuesday charging that her instant lottery ticket entitles her to the prize money

A spokesman for the lottery said that although the ticket shows a winning number of seven, the number was a computer misprint and should have read 17. The spokesman said if the number was supposed to be seven there would have been a zero in front of it, which there wasn't.

Gary B. Garson, Mrs. Howard's attorney, said that though there might have been a misprint, the lottery still should honor the ticket.

A cold front pushed across Ohio last night, dropping temperatures to the 30s and 40s at daybreak.

A few spotty showers fell during the night, but amounts were light. Brisk westerly winds kept a blanket of clouds over the state today, which were expected to touch off some showers, possibly mixed with some light snow in the northeast this morning.

Afternoon readings were to be mainly in the upper 40s and 50s temperatures more normal for mid-November.

Skies will clear in the west and south tonight, letting scattered light frost form in those areas. Temperatures will lower once more into the 30s.

FRIDAY THROUGH SUNDAY Fair Friday and a chance of showers Saturday and Sunday. Highs in the upper 50s and 60s. Lows in the 30s Friday and the 40s Saturday and sheriff's deputies following an incident early Sunday in the A and M Bar in Jeffersonville.

Two other men signed waivers on charges of disorderly conduct Tuesday. George D. Remy, 26, 7161/2 Yeoman St., was charged with disorderly conduct in the fourth degree by local police officers Saturday night and paid a $65-fine and costs.

Earl (Randy) Rohrer, 21, of New Holland, was charged with disorderly conduct by intoxication and paid a $78.10-fine, including costs. He was arrested on a private warrant by sheriff's deputies early Saturday morning.

Charged with possession marijuana, James L. Haines, 18, of 2596 Staunton-Sugar Grove Road, signed a waiver and paid a fine and costs amounting to $41.45. Washington C.H. police officers arrested him early Saturday in the Washington Square Shopping Center parking lot.

Both Carl W. Henderson, 25, of 5040 Austin-Good Hope Road, and James E. Bethel, 39, of New Carlisle, forfeited bonds of $100 each on charges of disorderly conduct while intoxicated. Henderson was arrested by police officers in the Farmer's Cafe following a complaint on Sept. 30. Bethel was arrested Saturday night at the Mugs and Jugs tavern on U.S. 35-S by Fayette County sheriff's deputies.

Chemical exposure blamed for deaths

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) Exposure to a chemical used in making synthetic rubber caused bladder cancer in 36 employes of Monsanto chemical company, according to a Monsanto spokesman

The Tuesday announcement followed a search of Monsanto records, said spokesman Barney Wander.

The search was sparked by a report in a Charleston newspaper that six Monsanto workers died because of exposure to the chemical, para aminobiphenyl, Wander said. He confirmed the six deaths Tuesday, The Gazette PAB was produced at the company's Nitro plant near here until 1955, when the hazards of the substance were discovered, said Wander, who is based in St. Louis.

Over vote law issue

Court restrains Brown in battle with women

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - Secretary of State Ted W. Brown has been restrained by a federal judge from going ahead with his plans to prescribe Ohio's Nov. 8 ballot and from seeking to "destroy or replace" the Ohio League of Women Voters.

The prohibitions came Tuesday from U.S. District Court Judge Don Young, who signed the temporary order in Toledo at the request of William Boyle and others, including a member of the league.

Boyle is a Democratic member of the Lucas County Board of Elections and the county's Democratic chairman. He declined to comment on the litigation which involves Republican Brown's handling of the hotly contested Issue 1 on the November ballot.

It seeks to repeal the state's new instant voter registration law enacted earlier this year by the Democratcontrolled legislature.

Brown, not having seen the order, also said he would withhold comment except for portion of it that involved the manner in which he chose to place Issue 1 on the ballot

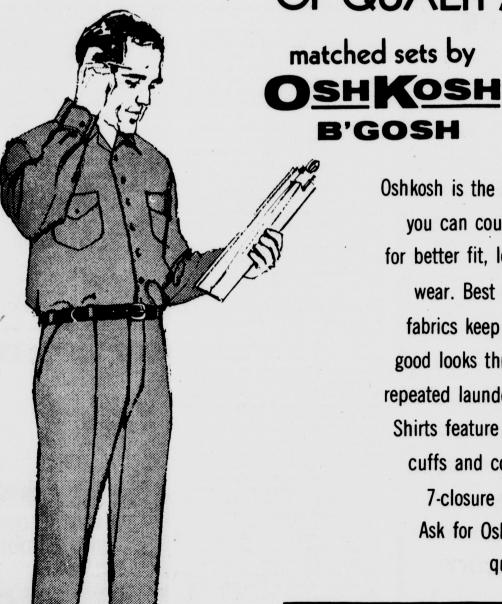

Boyle's attorney, Gerald Lackey of Toledo, contended Brown placed "undue emphasis" on Issue 1 by capitalizing certain portions and underlining others, and also by providing the complete text of the repealer in addition to a voter's summary. This, he did not do for the other three amendments on the ballot, Boyle's petition

Brown said he did so on Issue 1 because, unlike the other three amendments, it makes proposed changes in existing language in the Ohio Constitution. The other three, he said, adds "completely new language." Brown said he has always prescribed ballots in this fashion, and had explained his reasons prior to the Fuesday court action.

The secretary of state, Ohio's top elections official for the past quarter century, said he does not know what effect the litigation may have on the printing of ballots for the election, now less than a month away. He said he would seek to have the order lifted in an appeals court, if necessary.

Panthers face only other team with winning record

Record-Herald Sports Editor "Hillsboro put a scare into everyone when they beat Washington C.H. two weeks ago. They are the only team in the league, besides us, that has a winning record. Things are looking up for Hillsboro," said Panther head coach Fred Zechman, looking ahead to this week's opponents, the Hillsboro Indians.

Hillsboro shocked everyone two weeks ago when they invaded Gardner Park and walked away with their first win in 15 years, 17-0. During the game, Indians' relied solely on the running game and did not attempt a single pass.

The Indians boast the second best rushing attack in the SCOL. They have piled up 1279 yards on the ground, about 475 yards behind the Panthers. However, their 117 passing yards is better only than Circleville. The Trace defense will be a big factor in the game as they average giving up about 110 yards a game and four points.
"According to the stats of last week's game with Wilmington, the Indians moved the ball real well," stated Zechman. "They just couldn't push it over for a score. Really, the only scores came on bombs by Williams."

"They have a whole new outlook. They play good defense along with two of the better runners around in their backfield. They have a lot more kids out for football this fall and their attitude is much better than before."

Even with the loss last week, Hillsboro believes in itself. Their defense puts a lot of pressure on the offense. Their interior linemen are good and their offensive backfield is good. They'll give us a good game," Zechman said.

Most impressive about the Hillsboro offense is, indeed, their backfield. Led by Bruce Ford and John Cole, the Indians have one of the best one-two punches in the SCOL. And, behind an offensive line that has good size, the runners get plenty of practice.

Ford is the SCOL's leading rusher with 707 yards in five games, an average of 141.4 yards a game. At that rate, Ford will finish the season with times every game and still manages to average over four yards per carry

Cole is the fullback in the backfield. He combines power, agility, blocking power and quickness to compliment Ford. Cole averages nearly 60 yards each game, making the Hillsboro backfield tandem comparable only to the Dennis Combs-David Creamer duo for Miami Trace.

The Indians have divided time between quarterbacks. Senior Rick Kelch (5-10, 160) began the season behind the center, but was injured three weeks ago. His replacment, Randy Abbott (5-9, 145) has seen the most duty since that time. With Kelch in the lineup, the Indians will probably go to the pass more often. Zechman expects Abbott to start at the position, but stated Kelch might see action, also.

According to the Panther head coach, the interior offensive line has good size and knows how to block. Don Barrera and Jerry Bach are the guards while Larry Armstrong is the center. Barrera (6-1, 195) and Bach (6-1, 188) are exceptional on traps. Both get a lot of practice as Ford's number is called in the huddle quite often for trap plays.

Armstrong (6-3, 201) is a big center that is another exceptional blocker in the Hillsboro running game. Ford has two basic spots to run to, the one between the right guard and center and the one between the left guard and the center. The play of Barrera, Bach and Armstrong usually dictates the way the Hillsboro offense plays. Kelch and Abbott have several receivers to choose from when they elect to put the ball in the air. None have had very much experience catching the football and dual tight ends Keith Seeger (6-3, 170) and Don Webster (6-1, 170) are in the lineup primarily for their blocking ability. Wingback Chuck Howell (5-7, 160) seems to be the favorite target while Cole circles out of the backfield for an occasional pass.

On defense, the Indian fortunes ride on many of the same players. Cole is filling in for linebacker Jeff Banks (6-1, 196) one of Hillsboro's best football well over 1400 yards rushing. The 5-10, players. According to Zechman, 183 pounder carries the ball nearly 35 however, the defense doesn't suffer about their personnel since we have with Cole in the lineup.

The defensive tackles, Barrera and Armstrong, are every bit as good on the defensive line as they are on the opposite side of the line. Armstrong is excellent in his pursuit and leads the team in sacks. The Trace offensive line will have to keep close tabs on him the entire night if quarterback Art Schlichter is to have another good night

The Indians play the '62' defense with five linemen and two linebackers. In the words of Zechman, "That puts a lot of people on the line and there's not much room to run. There aren't many holes when eight people are clogging it

You never know about a team like Hillsboro," Zechman said. "We think we'll be ready for them, but they could be a surprise. We feel we know a lot two coaches that came from the Hillsboro system." Assistant coaches Bill Beatty and Terry Enochs each are Hillsboro products, Enochs coaching at Hillsboro last season.

After a one game absence, that familiar No. 10 will be back on the field as Schlichter will again engineer the Panther offense. Despite sitting out the Madison Plains game for a mid-season breather after a bruising game with Lancaster, the Panther aerial artist still leads the SCOL in every passing

A questionable starter is defensive tackle John Burr. Burr re-injured a troublesome ankle last week and is listed only as a question mark. If Burr is not ready to go, sophomore Bill Smith will fill in. Smith backed him last week following his injury and did a very capable job.

Panthers of the week

Seven Panthers received the "Big Eye" awards in the 68-7 win over Madison Plains last week. The honors will be given after head coach Fred Zechman and his staff viewed the game films. OFFENSE

SHAWN RILEY — Riley, a 6-2, 201-pound senior, was singled out for his excellent blocking at the point of attack. He helped the offense roll up 436 yards rushing over the Eagles.

GLENN COBB - Cobb, a rough, tough junior, was also excellent at the point of attack. His cross-field blocking was exceptional and his blocking resulted in three touchdowns.

BILL HANNERS — Hanners, who has made the list as a receiver, makes it for the first time as a blocker. The 6-3, 185pound senior had eight downfield blocks, two that directly resulted in touchdowns. He also caught two passes for 22 yards.

DENNIS COMBS — Combs was once again the big play runner, gaining 178 yards on 14 carries. He also scored a pair of touchdowns, one from one yard out and the other on a 78-yard sprint.

SCOTT GROOMS - Grooms, a sophomore, makes the list after filling in at quarterback for Art Schlichter. Grooms scored two touchdowns, ran for 114 yards and passed for 97 more.

Unlikely heroes give New York opening game win over Dodgers

and one whose season was supposed to important offense as the New York Yankees finally won their 100th World Series game.

It took 13 years and 12 action-packed placed third with 103 points

NEW YORK (AP) - Two left- Yankees reached the century mark, handers, one who can pitch every day outlasting the Los Angeles Dodgers 4-3.

"It feels wonderful," decided Yankee be over, provided the hurling heroics, Manager Billy Martin, who managed while a defensive specialist and a his first World Series winner after four Punch 'n Judy hitter provided the losing games against Cincinnati last year.

Last year, Cincinnati had left-hander Don Gullett, while this year the Yankees have him. The hard-throwing innings Tuesday night before the Gullett, an off-season free agent acquisition by the Yankees, was yanked after two innings last Wednesday in the American League playoffs because of a sore shoulder. At the time, Martin said Gullett was finished for the season.

But that was no mirage on the mound Tuesday night. It was Gullett, who combined with ironman Sparky Lyle to finish off the Dodgers, allowing the National League champions just six hits all night.

"The difference between the playoffs and tonight was that I was throwing the ball 10 or 15 miles an hour faster," said Gullett, who was given a pain-killing cortisone shot after his poor performance a week ago. "Even though I had trouble in the first inning, I had enough confidence in my stuff to know I would corral it sooner or later.

Lyle, who always has confidence in his stuff, checked the Dodgers on one hit for the last 3 2-3 innings to gain his third straight post-season victory. His winning relief stints Saturday and Sunday carried the Yankees into the World Series.

'My arm feels good right now," said Lyle, who has pitched 13 2-3 innings in relief since post-season play began for the Yankees last Wednesday. definitely can go tomorrow, I mean if he needs me.

Lyle didn't have to pitch all night because Paul Blair, a brilliant outfielder inserted for Reggie Jackson in the ninth inning, stroked a two-strike look to hit the long ball.

fleet Willie Randolph with the winning

In the sixth inning, Randolph had turned from speedster to power hitter, socking his first home run since July 12 (274 at bats) to tie the game at 2-2.

Blair, a beanball victim earlier in his career, still carries the psychological scars and ducks away from righthanded pitchers. But his clutch single in the 12th came off right-handed reliever Rick Rhoden, the fifth Los Angeles pitcher. He also singled off City right-hander Dennis Sunday, launching the Leonard Yankees' ninth-inning, pennantwinning rally.

Blair's game-winner came after he had failed to lay down successful sacrifice bunts in the 10th and 12th innings. "I was disappointed that I didn't get the bat down really good when I was trying to bunt," Blair said.

Randolph, the Yankees' 23-year-old All-Star second baseman, was the New York power hitter Tuesday night, stealing the thunder from sluggers Jackson, Graig Nettles and Chris Chambliss, who remain in dismal slumps. None of them has an extrabase hit in post-season play.

"All year I've been in background, so this feels great," said the quiet Randolph, who had only four homers in the regular season. "But I'm not really a home run hitter and I don't

LA has to go 'Catfishing' tonight

shouldered Don Gullett having affected a miracle cure for the opening game of the World Series, the pitching-short New York Yankees are keeping their fingers crossed and turning tonight's second-game assignment over to a seldom-used right-hander also beset by an assortment of miseries.

But this pitcher, who hasn't thrown a ball in anger in more than a month, who didn't appear at all during the American League playoffs and who was ineffective during most of the regular season, just happens to be one of the premier hurlers in baseball history

Augustus "Catfish" Hunter.

'I just called my little boy and told him to watch the first inning so he could see me," said Catfish Hunter, only the fourth pitcher in this century, the others were Cy Young, Christy Mathewson and Walter Johnson, to record his 200th victory before his 31st birthday

"I don't know how far I can go, but Billy (Manager Billy Martin) should have somebody ready from the fourth inning on," said Catfish Hunter, one of only three American Leaguers, the others are Johnson and Lefty Grove, to be a 20-game winner in five consecutive seasons

"Billy told me something on the plane ride home from Kansas City about me starting either the second or third game," said Catfish Hunter, eight times a member of the AL All-Star team, winner of the Cy Young Award in 1974 and runnerup in 1975.

Catfish Hunter, owner of a 4-1 record and 2.36 earned run average in four previous World Series, has taken to crying on the inside while making jokes on the outside about his dismal 1977 season: only 22 appearances, a 9-9 wonlost record, 4.71 ERA and 29 home runs in just 143 1-3 innings of work.

This is the pitcher on whom the Yankees are relying in the wake of Tuesday night's 4-3 opening-game triumph behind the six-hit hurling of Gullett and relief ace Sparky Lyle and the hitting of Willie Randolph, Thurman Munson and Paul Blair, who singled home the winning run in the bottom of the 12th inning.

Asked what he expected from Hunter, Martin replied:

"I don't put any innings on him. It all goes according to what my eyes tell me. I had to use two starters the other day (Ron Guidry and Mike Torrez in Game 5 of the playoffs) and another

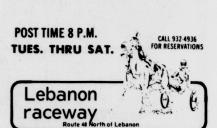

NEW YORK (AP) - With sore- one (Ed Figueroa) has a sore finger. That is why Hunter gets the call tonight. Gullett was tapped for the opener for much the same reason, even though he had to leave the playoff opener against Kansas City last > after yielding four runs in two innings. "When a pitcher has arm problems there's really some uncertainty,' Gullett said after overcoming a shaky start as the Dodgers took a quick 2-0 lead, then settling down and working 81-3 strong innings.

Wednesday with an aching shoulder

"But I felt physically good and strong warming up and I knew I'd be okay. I told the pitching coaches and I kept shaking my head affirmatively.

"We Service What We Sell"

Portland looks for repeat as NBA world champions

By ALEX SACHARE AP Sports Writer

Can the Portland Trail Blazers do it again? Can they become the first team in nine years to repeat as National Basketball Association champions?

"The hardest thing to do, in any professional sport, is winning a championship two years in a row," said Portland Coach Jack Ramsay, who guided the Blazers to the top of the heap in his first season with Portland. "The motivational factors are different. There is a tendency to be less hungry.

"And we are no longer a team that people will take lightly. Everyone else is gunning for you. Wherever you go, the other team wants to knock off the Portland rose to the top with a blend of talent and teamwork, fine coaching and enthusiastic local support that will not be easy to duplicate. As Ramsay says, it's always harder the second time. The last team to win two in a row was Boston in 1968 and 1969.

In fact, the Blazers will have their hands full within their own Pacific Division. Los Angeles, which beat the Blazers for the division title during the regular season a year ago, has assembled a much stronger supporting cast for super-center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, the league's Most Valuable Player. Phoenix also is much improved, while Golden State and Seattle are rebuilding.

The Midwest Division also appears to be strengthened. Chicago was the hottest team in the league the second half of last season, Denver has moved to build its backcourt, Detroit remains loaded with talent and Milwaukee is coming off one of the finest college drafts in history. Kansas City and Indiana don't figure to compete for the title, but at least both made some moves in the off-season.

Pacific Division Portland's future depends on the forward Walter Davis of North health and well-being of center Bill Carolina is highly touted, and versatile Walton, the precision passer and inspirational leader of the Blazers. He is the key to their fast break, their pattern offense, their pressure defense everything. Walton injured his back while chopping wood, however, and has suffered back spasms throughout the exhibition season. He spent four days in a hospital in traction, but Blazers trainer Ron Culp said he hopes the redhaired center will be in the lineup opening day. "We're a long way from panic," said Culp.

Walton's history of injuries is the Blazers' biggest problem. The backup center is journeyman Tom Owens, with forward-center Lloyd Neal also available. Neither can control a game like Walton.

Maurice Lucas and Lionel Hollins provide Portland's points, Dave Twardzik and Johnny Davis do the playmaking and Bob Gross keeps things moving. It's not the best known lineup, but it was good enough to win it all last season.

Los Angeles compiled a 53-29 record last season with Abdul-Jabbar and a supporting cast of one-dimensional players. This season, Abdul-Jabbar should have more help, if only because of the signing of free agent Jamaal Wilkes, one of the better two-way forwards in the game

The Lakers' other pickups included playmaker Ernie DiGregorio, veteran swingman Lou Hudson and three No. 1 draft choices: forward Kenny Carr and guards Brad Davis and Norm Nixon. Much also is expected from secondyear pro Earl Tatum.

Phoenix, decimated by injuries which knocked out starting front courtmen Alvan Adams, Curtis Perry and Gar Heard for much of last season, should bounce back strong. Rookie Don Buse, formerly of Indiana, joins Paul Westphal and Ron Lee in a fine backcourt.

Golden State signed defensive star E.C. Coleman to replace Wilkes at forward, but the Warriors' biggest addition is rookie Ricky Green, the lightning quick playmaker from Michigan who should start opposite Phil Smith in an explosive backcourt.

Seattle's new coach, Bob Hopkins. hopes to field a scrappy, running team which will make up for other shortcomings with extra hustle. Marvin Webster, after two years on Denver's bench, will get a full shot at the center

Midwest Division Denver, with all-stars David Thompson, Bobby Jones and Dan Issel up front, obtained Brian Taylor from Kansas City and Bobby Wilkerson from Seattle to bolster its backcourt. Both are solid defensive performers, Taylor having ranked second in the NBA in steals last season. Tuesday's acquisition of rookie forward Bo Ellis helps the bench.

Chicago stumbled out of the blocks last season, but finished strong as newcomers Artis Gilmore, Scott May and Wilbur Holland blended in with veterans Norm Van Lier and Mickey Johnson. Coach Ed Badger is hoping the Bulls will pick up where they left off

Bob Lanier remains the Pistons' bulwark, but there are no signs that the rest of the talent has been sorted out, and until that happens the team will not play up to its potential.

Milwaukee has perhaps the youngest team in the league, with a bumper rookie crop of center Kent Benson, forward Marques Johnson and swingman Ernie Grunfeld joining young veterans like guards Brian Winters and Quinn Buckner, forward Dave Meyers and swingman Junior Bridgeman. This team will be a contender. The question is, how soon?

Kansas City is hoping towering Tom Burleson will blossom after three forgettable seasons in Seattle. Secondyear pro Richard Washington, a 6-foot-10 forward, is on the verge of stardom.

Indiana is happy just to have a franchise after last spring's financial crisis. Newcomers Adrian Dantley, Mike Bantom and Ricky Sobers will be hard-pressed to replace departed All-Stars Billy Knight and Don Buse.

Opening lead - king of clubs.

When you're declarer in a the play somewhat more careful consideration than if you were in a part score or to do that in the present case and it ultimately cost him 1,530 points.

He won the club lead with the ace and played the A-K of diamonds, planning to ruff the third round of diamonds high in dummy. Unfortunately, East ruffed the king of diamonds, returned a trump, and South him 1,530 points.

later had to lose a diamond trick to go down one. The deal illustrates the type of reasoning required when a contract that seems easy to play and make actually contains an element of danger. In these so-called "laydown" hands, declarer should stop and ask himself: "What can defeat me?" Had South foilowed that rule in this case, he might have found the right way to play the slam. A 5-1 diamond division is certainly not probable - but, since it is possible, some effort should be made to guard against it.

After winning the club lead and cashing the ace of diamonds, South should have played the deuce of diamonds at trick three! This would have provided him with total protection against any division of the diamonds, whether they were split 3-3, 4-2 or 5-1. In the slam, it is surely right to give third and critical case, South would be able to ruff the next diamond high in dummy, discard the ten of diamonds on game contract. South neglected the ace of spades, and thus insure twelve tricks.

Let's grant that South was unlucky to run into a 5-1 diamond break that cost him the slam. But, even so, the most it could have cost him to play a low diamond at trick three was 30 points, while the failure to do so could, and in fact did, cost

Speaking of Your Health

Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Aerosol Propellents and the Eyes

A patient, a 20-year-old girl, made a bright observation that deserves to be brought to the attention of my readers. She became aware of intense pain in the eyes every time she used any kind of aerosol deodorant or hair spray. She made another interesting observation. She found that there were times that she was not able to use her contact lenses after being exposed to the same kind of sprays.

I made inquiry from a number of eye specialists who concurred with her "diagnosis." Apparently, specks of the chemical substances that are expelled at a high speed through the nozzle of an aerosol dispenser can injure the delicate outer covering of the eye (the conjunctiva).

The reaction of redness and pain is exactly like that which occurs when a speck of dust flies into the eye. The tiny particles may even become embedded in the eyes if the spray is accidentally directed straight into them.

There is an additional danger that the "freezing" propellent of the bomb may rapidly evaporate and cause damage, too. Fortunately, legislation now is aimed at the elimination of aerosol propellents. Even the new "squeeze" tops should be used with care in order to avoid injury to the eyes.

We've been trying to have a baby for two years. The many doctors whom we've consulted haven't been able to find any problem with me or my husband that would account for my infertility. I haven't had the courage to ask any of my doctors if there's a possibility that my problem may be psychological. I can't even discuss the matter with my husband. He becomes angry and refuses to talk about what he thinks is nonsense. Am I too far off base in this speculation? - Mrs. H.B., Ore.

Dear Mrs. B.: Your physicians would be the first to welcome an open discussion about the very wise idea that you introduce. In fact, the complete fertility workup done by specialists in the field always includes an evaluation of the psychological and emotional factors that may exist in relationships between wifes and husbands. When a thorough study fails to reveal any organic or physical defect, the possibility of emotional conflicts, tensions and stress are given top priority.

Toledo bus strike ends

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) - Striking bus drivers and mechanics went back to work today, ending a two-day wildcat walkout that forced nearly 65,000 passengers to find other ways to get to their jobs or school. Representatives of Amalgamated Transit Union Division 697 and officials of the Toledo Area Regional Transit Authority signed an agreement about 3 a.m. to clarify issues that caused the strike

One hour and 45 minutes later, the first bus rolled out of the TARTA garage as 210 drivers and 44 mechanics began reporting for work.

Union President Ray Jacobs said the major difference between the union and TARTA was over a $1 million pension fund.

'We agreed to clarify the differences we had," Jacobs said. "As of right now, it's all over. It's all straightened out." Details of the agreement were not released immediately.

The agreement followed lengthy talks that began after drivers refused to comply with a court order to end the walkout before getting certain written guarantees from the TARTA.

On Tuesday, Lucas County Common Court Judge Francis Pietrykowski issued a restraining order calling for union members to end

County teachers attend training session on drug abuse education

During the past few weeks, elementary and junior high school teachers in the Miami Trace School District have attended an in-service training session about drug abuse and drug education. The in-service training was an outgrowth of a summer long project to develop an elementary level health curriculum to be used in the Miami Trace school system.

Eric Jenkins, the drug treatment specialist with the Fayette County Mental Health Clinic, conducted the training sessions which were arranged by Elementary Supervisor June Slaughter. The sessions were held in each of the 11 elementary and junior high schools in the Miami Trace

The training consisted of an overview of drug use in today's society, the need for early drug education, and effective techniques for doing drug education in the classroom. Jenkins emphasized the need for going beyond just providing factual information about drugs to students. He believes that in order for drug education to be effective, it must focus on the reasons why people abuse drugs. For example, it becomes necessary for students to learn such things as how to effectively deal with anger or cope with loneliness and depression, which are common reasons why people abuse drugs, he said.

As a result of many teachers desiring more information about drugs and drug education, Jenkins is preparing a bibliography of additional resources which will be available to all of the teachers later this month

Anyone wishing additional information or counseling about drugs can contact Jenkins at the mental health clinic at its new location at 324 E. Court St., or may call the clinic at

Forest move is proposed

lack of funds

MARIETTA, Ohio (AP) - A taxpayers group in this southeastern Ohio area wants a national forest moved out of Washington County.

A national forest here may be useful in preventing erosion of land, but it is eating away at the county's tax base, members of the Washington County

Taxpayers' Association charge.
The 26,711 acres of Wayne National Forest is undermining the schools, Barbara Sutton, executive secretary of the association, said.

The Frontier Local school district, which includes much of the national forest, is scheduled to close Dec. 12 for

The forest only brings the county $18,000 annually, Mrs. Sutton said. Approximately $18,000 to $20,000 in timber and mineral sales and federal reimbursements in lieu of taxes will be paid the county this year.

"If it (Wayne National Forest) doesn't provide a public service for us, then let's be the first county in the United States to say 'We want out'," she said.

Tape player theft checked by police

Two unidentified men allegedly stole an eight-track tape player from an automobile parked near the corner of Forest Street and Columbus Avenue Monday night.

A witness reportedly saw the two men enter a car belonging to Barbara L. Chamberlin of 604 Columbus Ave. about 11:30 p.m. Monday, according to a Washington C.H. Police Department report. The offenders removed a tape player valued at $45. Ms. Chamberlin's vehicle was unlocked at the time of the incident.

Police officers reported the men escaped in a dark-colored 1969-1971 model Pontiac.

Vandals shattered the rear window of a car Tuesday afternoon along the 300 block of Lewis Street.

Washington C.H. police officers reported Karen S. Melvin, 19, 315 N. North St., was driving north on Lewis Street near Temple Street around 3:20 p.m. when the rear window of her 1973 model Ford was struck by an unknown object. The window was shattered resulting in an estimated $50 damage.
